Welcome to the 4th Ecosystem Services Partnership (ESP) European Conference 2022 in Heraklion!

Welcome on behalf of the local organisers!

The Ecosystem Services Partnership has successfully organised numerous World and Regional ESP Conferences since its launch in 2008. The last couple of years with the covid pandemic have shaped conferences and scientific meetings differently, offering opportunities and higher accessibility, but also posing limitations to this interactive setup. This year we have the opportunity to still participate remotely, but also to finally get together in Heraklion, in the island of Crete in Greece.

The location of the conference was selected since islands are indeed places with unique biophysical and socio-economic characteristics, but also with a higher vulnerability to changes, whether these relate to climatic conditions or social cohesion. Under the past and ongoing crises, from the humanitarian, economic, to the Covid pandemic, these spaces developed different resilience mechanisms to connect with nature and overcome these crises. All this came to serve also the conference theme, which aims to highlight the way in which "Ecosystem services empower people and societies in times of crises". To serve this theme, we shaped the Conference under four research streams. Within the four days of the conference we will focus on understanding the different values of nature (Stream 1), while understanding how we can make use of this knowledge to induce transformative change (Stream 2). We will also foster discussions on how we can design and promote change towards a desirable future of social ecological-systems by thinking out of the box (Stream 3) and how research on ecosystem services can be better embedded in education and awareness raising strategies (Stream 4).

These streams are served by the prepared program which has 40 sessions organized by the different ESP Working Groups, a two-day poster session for both online and on-site participants and various field trips across different social-ecological systems around Heraklion. The five key note presentations by invited speakers, are intended to both cover the research streams, but also to bring in new ideas and alternative ways of thinking within the ESP community. The conference is also supported by an artist who will act as an observer to the conference and summarize the conference outputs in a graphical way, with the intention to generate outreach within a broader audience.

We are reducing our environmental footprint during this Conference by, for instance, using a sustainability-certified venue, serving regionally produced food at the Conference dinner, avoiding printed Conference material by using a mobile App and offering the possibility to participate in a carbon compensation scheme. In order to be family-friendly and enable young parents to enjoy the Conference, childcare is offered.

We thank especially the local/national Conference Organising Committee consisting of representatives from the University of Patras and the Geography Department of Harokopio University, which provided substantial financial and organizational support to the Conference. A special thanks to the LIFE-IP 4 Natura project, the Natural Environment & Climate Change Agency of Greece, the LIFE-IP Pandoteira project, and the Region of Crete for their financial support. Further Conference sponsors include the Pensoft Publishers, Elsevier Publishers and the Land and Sustainability MDPI journals.

We hope that you enjoy the Conference, and we wish you a successful, inspiring and pleasant stay in Heraklion during the 4th ESP European Conference.

Welcome on behalf of the Ecosystem Services Partnership (ESP)

After the 1st ESP Europe Conference in Antwerp, Belgium (2016), the 2nd in San Sebastian, Spain (2018), and the 3rd in Tartu, Estonia (2021) we are continuing our European journey in `space and time` in Greece. Actually, the really first `official` ESP Europe Conference was organised in Wageningen, the Netherlands in 2011 which marked the beginning of a long series of World and Regional Conferences. The seeds for ESP were planted in Kiel, Germany, in 2008, then given a bit of water in 2009 (in Lecce, Italy), started to grow in 2010 (Salzau, Germany), and was officially established in 2011 with the creation of the first Executive Committee during the ESP Conference in the Netherlands (a little history for the newcomers among us).

ESP thus has strong roots in Europe which is naturally reflected in the distribution of participants to this Conference: of the 49 countries that are thus far represented by the registered participants, 32 are from Europe. After two years of online and hybrid meetings (in Estonia 88% of the 460 participants took part virtually), we are very pleased to finally meet in person again here in Greece: of the 376 registered participants thus far, 75% are on-site (almost the reverse of the situation in Estonia last year).

Although the Covid pandemic is hopefully finally receding, many other environmental and social problems currently seem to get only worse, most tragically of course the invasion of Ukraine by Russian troops. As ESP we can only condemn this senseless violence, which causes dramatic losses of human lives as well as precious natural and cultural heritage. We are doing our best to continue our quest for a more just and safe world by expanding our knowledge on the many ways in which people and society depend on ecosystems and `make nature count` in every-day decision making: we need fundamental changes in our economic system if we want to stop ecosystem degradation and loss of biodiversity, which directly and indirectly is related to many of the other main crises in this world such as climate change and social disruption.

Two encouraging signs that this message is increasingly being heard are the acceptance by the UN Statistical Commission to expand the SEEA to include Ecosystem Services in national accounts in March last year (Ecosystem Accounting | System of Environmental Economic Accounting) and in the press release on the new Nature Restoration law in Europe (22 June 2022), where it was acknowledged that for every € 1 we invest in ecosystem restoration, we get a return of between € 8 – 38 from the benefits healthy ecosystems provide. These developments and calls for action show that ESP is needed more than ever as an independent, global community bringing together scientists, practitioners, business and policy makers to discuss how the ES-concept can continue to contribute to provide sustainable solutions to address the many environmental and social crises we are facing today.

To further enhance the science and uptake of scientific evidence in public and private sector decision making the European Union increasingly supports large collaborative research projects on ecosystem services, many of which are conceived during ESP conferences and in ESP Working Groups. A recent example of this is the start last month of the 5-year EU Horizon project SELINA: Science for Evidence-based and Sustainable decisions about Natural Capital, in which many ESP members and the ESP Secretariat participate. Another important milestone is the 10-year existence of the Journal Ecosystem Services which came forth from the early ESP conferences in 2010 and 2011. Shortly after its launch in 2012 it became the main global outlet for papers on ES science, policy and practice.

Next to doing research and publishing papers ESP wants to stimulate the public debate on how the ES concept can help to `make a difference` and empower people and societies to address the many environmental, social and economic challenges we face today. This will be discussed here in Heraklion during five keynotes and many (around 40) sessions and other events, all coming together during an engaging reflection-session on the last day focusing on four main questions: understanding nature`s values, using ES-science for transformative change and designing a desirable future, and embedding ecosystem services in education and awareness raising strategies.

A very important part of the value of a conference experience lies in the networking and socializing activities. This is best done in `real life`, but the online platform we use (Let`s Get Digital) also includes interactive features and offers options to connect with speakers, scheduling one-on-one or group meetings and more. and more. The conference mobile app will also help onsite and online participants find their way around the event and connect with each other.

Organising an ESP Conference is always a lot of work, especially in a hybrid format, and we are very grateful to the local Conference Organising Committee (Evangelia Drakou, Panayotis Dimopoulos, Ioannis Kokkoris and their team and volunteers). Special thanks to Diane Ingabire and Iskra Konovska of the ESP Secretariat for their hard work over the past months, supported during the last hectic weeks by among others Victoria Guisado-Goni and Olav de Bruijn. Also many thanks to the members of the Scientific Program Committee and the International Advisory Committee for their help and advice. We are also grateful to the sponsors for their financial and other support, which is acknowledged in more detail elsewhere in this booklet.

We hope you will enjoy the Conference and make the most out of this time together: ESP Conferences are meant to be an open and informal space for old and new colleagues and friends, coming together to share their passion for enhancing the science, policy and practical applications of the ES concept for a more healthy and sustainable planet!

Digital platform

This is a hybrid event, meaning it will take place simultaneously in-person in Heraklion and online everywhere else. To make this happen we will once again rely on the digital platform Let's Get Digital which we used at the 3rd ESP Europe Conference last year in Tartu, Estonia.

All plenaries, sessions, posters and company booths will be accessible to the online attendees in real time. Plenaries and sessions will also be recorded and available on demand. The virtual event platform will be accessible to the on-site participants as well, should they wish to make use of it.

Conference app

To reduce printing and our CO2 footprint, the COC has decided to offer a conference app instead of a printed program booklet. This version of the program booklet will only be provided as a download on the conference website, in case you prefer all information in one file.

To access the ESP Europe Conference app, please go to your app store, download the app 'ESP Europe 2022'. You can also download the app here or by scanning the QR code below:

After installing the app, you can:

- Access the event program and speakers list
- Create your own daily schedule that will guide you through the day
- Stay informed and receive the latest messages and news
- Connect with attendees, speakers and exhibitors (both onsite and online)
- Find more information about the organisers and sponsors
- Find more information about the venue, locations, conference dinner
- Take notes during sessions
- Rate the posters

After downloading the app, don't forget to enable push notifications to stay up-to-date on the latest happenings and important news!

Market place

The following stands will be present at the market place on Wednesday:

1. Economics of Land Degradation (ELD) Initiative - A new Decade for Action
2. FIDELIO (Forecasting Social Impacts of Biodiversity Conservation Policies in Europe): a 5-year research project funded by the European Research Council (2019-2024)
Natural Capital Singapore
3. Ecosystems and People - an interdisciplinary and inclusive journal
4. Ecosystem Services Valuation Database (www.esvd.info)

Conference awards

The poster session will be held on Tuesday, 11 October, from 17:30-18:30 for online presentations and on Wednesday, 12 October, from 13:30-15:30 for on-site presentations.

As a poster session participant, you will be able to vote for the best poster through the conference app. All posters will be provided with an ID to enable the voting.

The poster winner will be announced during the closing session on Friday 14 October.

Useful tips

To make your stay as pleasant as possible, hereby some tips for your stay:

The Ecosystem Services Partnership \(ESP\) aims to enhance communication, coordination and cooperation, and to build a strong network of individuals and organizations. ESP enhances and encourages a diversity of approaches, while reducing unnecessary duplication of effort in the conceptualization and application of ecosystem services.

ESP connects over 3000 ecosystem services scientists, policy makers and practitioners who work together in more than 40 Working Groups and a growing number of National Networks on all continents. ESP is a membership based organisation, both institutional and individual members can subscribe. The Partnership has a specified governance structure and Executive committee.

The ESP Europe 2022 Regional Conference is part of the bi-annual cycle of ESP regional conferences around the globe.
